The science of Numismatics is one which opens, to the inquiring mind, a field of study, which yields to none of its sister sciences in interest or instruction. In a cabinet of English coins we have a miniature history of our own country, in which we trace the gradual development of that perfection in the different branches of art which now characterizes our nation. We trace the progress of the fine arts in design and sculpture, from their infancy, in the rude and bar barous forms on the British and early Saxons' ; improving under the enterprising and ingenious Normans ; then, after some centuries of repose, receiving a new impulse under the hands of that patron of the arts, Henry VII.; and we now behold them still gradually developing themselves, and approaching to perfection in the clear and beautiful touches of the present mintage. Nor is this confined to the pictorial representation ; we find, also, a manifest and gradual improvement in the form of letter used in the legend, and the different manner of spelling the names of towns and cities where the royal mint was established. In a commercial point of view, too, we see the relative values of metals at the various periods, and the alloys which have been resorted to.
INTRODUCTION.

We have, also, along with the head of the monarch, his name, titles, etc., and, in many instances, the circumstances under which they were struck; the various modifications of the crown, and the regal costume of the period; the changes which the revolutions of the empire have caused are displayed in the royal arms. In fact, what is there that is interesting to the historian, the biographer, or the antiquary, that is not to be found on coins? With a coin in my hand I feel myself identified with the monarch and his times whose head it bears. I see before me, perhaps, the head of one famous for his victories and achievements, his baseness and malignity, or his nobleness and generosity. The image shows him to me in the exercise of his power, as soldier, usurper, or statesman.
Every point in his history is brought clearly before me, and I see all his actions performed anew. I follow him through those which have gathered laurels, through his undermining hatred and enmity, or his policy and benevolence. This is a train of thought that naturally occurs to the student of coins, and it is hoped that the attempt at description in the present series, will have the effect of becoming a key to those events in the history of his own country with which every Englishman ought to be acquainted.

Other coins bear the name of Eustacius, son of Stephen; Robert, earl of Gloucester; and Henry, bishop of Winchester; all rare.

HENRY II.

1154—1189.

Legend. RICARDVS.—RE. REX.

Reverse.—In the field PICTAVIENSIS.—ACVITAE.

Rarity. Extremely rare.
JOHN.

1199—1216.

Obverse.—Type. No English coins are known. The Irish have—Penny, full-faced, bust, crowned, within a triangle, sceptre in his right hand; on the left of the head a rose. Halfpenny and farthing, head in triangle, on either side a star; one halfpenny, called the full-moon halfpenny, has the face filling up the whole field of the coin, the inner circle forming the outline of the face.

Obverse.—Type. Full face, crowned, without neck or shoulders; on some, a sceptre on the right of the head in the legend.
Legend. HERICVS. HENRICVS.—REX. ANG.—

III. TER. TERCI. The legends of these coins are remarkable for the letters in many instances being conjoined.

Reverse.—Type. There are two mintages; the early one has a voided cross within the inner circle, and four pellets conjoined in each compartment, but the practice of clipping and filing the moneys had been carried to such an extent, that about 1248 Henry issued a new coinage, with the same cross, but extending through to the outer edge, thereby rendering any mutilation visible; the cross is a voided or double one, each end terminating in a pellet, and one in the centre; three pellets were now inserted in each compartment instead of four, and not conjoined.
Legend. Mint master's and town names; some have TER. OF TERCI. added, as TER. RI. ON. LVND. in continuation of obverse.

Rarity. Not uncommon; those with TERCI. and REX. ANG. rare.

Gold. In this reign, gold coins are first introduced: they consist only of the penny: obverse, king seated in chair of state, crowned, with sceptre and orb; reverse, cross and pellets, a rose between the pellets in each compartment.

EDWARD I.

1272—1307.

Obverse.—Type. Full-faced bust of the king, crowned; crown consisting of three fleurs-de-lis.
and two lozenges, balls or points; beneath the rim of the crown, on the forehead, is a row of from one to five pearls; the hair, which is very abundant, stands out a considerable distance on either side the face, and curled; neck and part of the shoulders draped, visible; the whole confined within the inner circle. The Irish mintages are distinguished by having the head in a triangle, the legend running on the three sides of it: there are one or two specimens of English coins, with the triangle; they are very rare.

Legend. EDW. EDWA. EDWAR. EDWARD.—R. ANGL. DNS. HYB. There are many opinions respecting these coins. The one most generally received is, that those with the name in full, EDWARD, belong to Edward II., the rest to Edward I.
The farthing has E. R. ANGLIE.

Reverse.—Type. A plain cross, with its terminations enlarged, extending through to the outer edge of the coin, three pellets in each compartment within the inner circle.

Legend. In every instance except one, which has Robertus de Hadl, or Robert de Hadelie, consists of the name of the city or town where struck, as CIVITAS LONDON. VILL. BEREWICI.

Kinds. Pence, halfpence, and farthings. A groat is mentioned as having now made its first appearance, but it is uncertain; it is generally now believed to belong to Edward III. It has on its obverse a quatrefoil formed of a double line of beads, in which is the head of the king, with a star on either side of it. In the corners between the quatrefoil and inner circle are four roses; legend, EDWARDVS. DI. GRA. REX. ANGL. Reverse, cross as penny; two lines of legend running round in the outer one, DNS. HIBNE. DVX. AQVT.; in the inner one, CIVI. LONDONIA. It is very rare.

Rarity. Pennies common with the exception of a few mintages. The halfpenny and farthing very rare, the farthing particularly so.

EDWARD II.

1307—1327.

His coins are generally classed with Edward I., as there is not any distinguishing mark between them; they may be looked upon as one and the same thing.
EDWARD III.

1327—1377.

Obverse.—Type. Groat and half-groat, head same as Edward I.'s, within a circle formed of nine arches, fleury; pennies, halfpennies, and farthings, as Edward I.'s.

nobles; same types as before, with only the necessary change in the legend. All rare; the half-noble particularly so.

HENRY IV.

1399—1413.

Obverse.—Type. All his coins like his predecessor's; the head within the circle of arches on the groat and half-groat; they are only to be distinguished from Henry V. and VI. by weight. The groat weighs seventy-two grains, the others of course of proportionate weights.

Legend. As before, with the name only altered.

Reverse.—Type. As his predecessor's.
pellets in two of the quarters are joined together by an annulet.

Legend. Groat and half-groat; PONVI. DEV.

His coins are precisely like Henry IV.; no distinguishing mark has as yet been discovered.
so that what is said of the one will equally apply to the other.

HENRY VI.

1422—1461.

Same in every respect with the preceding ones, the only distinction being by weight; the weight of the groat being 60 grains, to his 49th year, and 48 after that time, and the other coins in proportion; the 48 grains groat very rare.

Gold. Noble, half-noble, quarter-noble, as before. The angel, and angelet, or half-angel. St. Michael piercing the dragon. All rare.
EDWARD IV.

1461—1483.

Obverse.—Type. The general type of his coins are still like all the preceding kings', from Edward I. The groat and half-groat have the bust within the circle of arches; penny, half-penny, and farthing, the same as before. The principal distinction is the royal badge of the house of York, the rose, on either side the neck of the bust; some are found with an annulet and rose, or four pellets, etc., on the breast, others with the initial letter of the town.

Legend. EDWA. EDWAR. EDWARD. EDWARDVS.

Titles as before.

Reverse.—Type. Similar to the others.
Legend. POSSUI DEUM, etc.

Legend. RICARD. RICARDVS. D. G., etc.

Reverse.—Type. As before, only with the

* Frequently spelled royal, and ryal.
general badge of Richard III.; the boar's head for a mint mark.

Rarity. Those with M. M., a boar's head, rare. Gold, as before. Angel and angelet rare.

HENRY VII.

1485—1509.

Obverse.—Type. To this monarch we owe the great change which has been, since his reign, gradually improving in coins. In the first issue, his coins very closely resemble those of Henry VI. Bust crowned with a double-arched crown, now first used; some have a key on either side the bust. In the 18th year of his reign his coins assumed a very different character. The circle of arches was discarded; the head (which, for the first time, may be considered as a portrait) is represented in dexter profile, crowned with a double or single arched crown, with the ball and cross on top. The penny has the king sitting in a chair of state, crowned, sceptre in his right and globe in his left hand.

_Legend._ HENRIC. HENRICVS.—VII. SEPTIM.—DI. DEI.—GRA. REX.—A. ANG. ANGL. AGL. —Z.—F. FR. FRAN. FRANC.

_Reverse._—_Type._ In his first coinage are the cross and pellets, but in his subsequent one the cross (fleury) is retained, but in the place of the pellets is a shield, France and England quarterly. The cross dividing the shield.

_Legend._ POSVI., etc. On the groats and groats the inner circle of legend is dismissed; its place being filled with the shield. In this reign the shilling makes its first appearance.

Rarity. Penny of first coinage extremely rare; halfpenny rare; others common. Second coinage, shilling with vii., groat with septim., and penny, rare; others far from uncommon.

Gold. The sovereign and double-sovereign now make their appearance; they have the king sitting on the throne, crowned, sceptre and globe in his hands; reverse, a large rose, in the centre of which are the arms of France and England, quarterly. Rial, which has the king in a ship. Angel and angelet. Rial, double-sovereign, and sovereign, rare; others, common.
HENRY VIII.

HENRY VIII.
1509—1547.

Obverse.—Type. His first coinage closely resembles Henry VII. In his year the farthing has a portcullis. In his year the head is almost full-faced, in a crowned with an open-arched crown. In 36th and 37th years, full-faced portrait, some with the cap.

POSVI, etc., on the shilling. Groat, half-groat, and penny, name of town.

CHARLES I.
detail. One description is as much as our limits will allow. The Oxford crown, the rarest in the series, has the king on horseback, in armour, to the left, crowned, double-arched crown, drawn sword in his right hand, a sash round his neck, coming under his left arm, the ends flying behind; the horse not caparisoned, having only a saddle cloth. On the field of the coin, beneath the horse, is a view of the city of Oxford, with the word oxon above it. This coin is beautifully executed. Shilling, half-shilling, quarter-shilling, groat, half-groat, and penny, sinister bust profile, in robes, crowned, hair long and flowing, beard long. Halfpenny, a rose, no legend, or a rose crowned between c. r.; as are also some half-groats and pennies.

Legend. C. CAR. CAROLVS. Oxford crown.
CAROLVS. D. G. MAG. BRIT. FRAN. ET. HIBER. REX.

Reverse.—Type. Generally the royal shield. The Oxford crown has no device, except an ornament to divide the legends; three Welsh feathers above. On some, the shield (which is as James I.’s) is oval, and mantled, sometimes crowned; others have shields, the quarterings terminating in a cross moline, etc. The smaller coins have sometimes a rose crowned, sceptres, or sceptre and trident in saltière, etc. One half-groat has two C’s interlinked, crowned.

Legend. Oxford crown, EXURGAT DEUS DIS-SIPENTUR INIMICI. In the field of the coin, in two parallel lines, is RELIG. PROT. LEG. ANG. LIBER. PARL., beneath which is 1644, OXON., and above v. for value. A branch of leaves and flowers between the words of the first. Others have _CHRISTO AVSPICE REGNO_. Others, _THRONVM. FIRMAT. IUSTITIA_. The groat has _RELIB. etc., within a scroll on the field, EXURGAT, etc.

Rarity. For the most part common. The Oxford crown is of the most extreme rarity, only three being known. The one described above is in the Bodleian Library, Oxford. At Higg’s sale, in 1824, a crown of this description sold for sixty-nine pounds. Most of the Oxford mintage are rare; the penny, in 1824 (Dimsdale’s), sold for nine pounds, fifteen shillings. The Aberystwith coins are rare, and the twenty shilling piece very much so.

Gold. Three pound piece, bust to the waist, feathers behind the head. Unit or broad piece, twenty shilling piece, sinister bust profile. crowned; in the right hand a _drawn sword, in the left an olive branch_; behind the head \textit{for value}. Reverse.—On field, _RELIB. etc._
a ribband. Double-crown and crown, bust profile crowned. Reverse.—Shield crowned, CUL-TORES. SVI. DEVS. PROTEGIT. Angels, angelets, rials, etc.

_Copper._—Halfpence and farthings, David playing the harp, looking upward; above, a crown, FLOREAT. REX. Reverse.—Halfpenny, St. Patrick in full robes, mitred, with crosier, etc., holding to figures around him the shamrock leaf; behind him the arms of Dublin. Farthing, St. Patrick as before, stretching his hand over reptiles; behind him a cathedral. Other half-pence, farthings, and half-farthings, have on obverse two sceptres in saltière, behind, a crown, or c. r. crowned. Reverse.—Some, the royal rose crowned; others, the Irish harp crowned; _and others, again, the Scotch thistle._ Legend.—
Obverse. CAR. CARO. CAROLVS.—D. G. MAG. BRIT. Reverse. On some, the Scotch motto, NEMO., etc.; others, continuation of titles.

Obsidional or Siege Pieces. These rude coins, if coins they can be called, were struck by the king, and those favourable to his cause, to supply that monarch with the necessary funds for carrying on his wars. They are extremely interesting, as showing the various inconveniences and shifts the king was subject to. The nobility and gentry, his partisans, were applied to for the use of all their plate, as were also wardens and fellows of the different colleges in the universities of Oxford, etc., the mayors and corporations of cities and towns, etc. The plate thus collected was chopped up, for the great part, in unmeaning shapes, and struck or graved with different devices, and the value. The Scarborough half-crown is a piece of thin plate doubled, the corners turned over to hold together. On one side is engraved in a very rude manner the castle, with the value in numerals; and on the other, Obs. SCARBOROUGH, 1645. The Newark shilling, which is one of the commonest, is a diamond shape. Obverse, crown between c. r.; beneath, xii. Reverse, Obs. NEWARK. 1646. Pontefract, sometimes an octagonal, and sometimes a round piece. Obverse, c. r. under a crown; DVM. SPIRO. SPERO. Reverse, Pontefract castle, with name or letters.

Others have nothing more than the value stamped upon them, or the weight; as on the ninepenny piece, r dwt. 6 grains: the variety is so great that a description would fill much more space than is allotted to the whole of this work.

In this short sketch it is impossible to treat of all the denominations of the coins of this monarch, but it is hoped that sufficient has been said to enable the collector to form a general idea of them. A history of the coinage in this reign alone would fill a folio volume.

COMMONWEALTH.

The shields on the crown are England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, each crowned; in the centre, within a star, St. George's cross. Between the shields, in the four compartments, are two c's interlinked. One shilling has one shield, France and England, quarterly; two shields of Scotland, and one of Ireland, not crowned; between the shields are the c's interlinked, crowned. The fourpence has a monogram of four c's interlinked, in form of a cross, crowned; and in the compartments are severally a rose, a thistle, a fleur-de-lis, and a harp. The threepence has three c's interlinked; the twopence two c's interlinked; and the penny a single c, all crowned; which denoted the value; others with numerals crowned. There are many varieties of the former coins, but the above specimens give a correct idea of the whole.

Gold. Five pound and two pound pieces, guineas, half-guineas, units, or twenty shilling pieces, ten shilling and five shilling pieces, same type, sceptres between shields.

Britannia, which now first appears; the Irish has the harp crowned, date on field; and the Scotch, the thistle crowned. English, BRITANNIA., date in exergue; Irish, MAG. BR. FRA. ET. HIB. REX; Scotch, NEMO. ME. IMPVNE. LACESSET. and date; all common. Farthing with Britannia particularly so.

I may here mention a most splendid foreign specimen of art, produced by Simon, the celebrated die-sinker, as a trial-piece against an artist who was employed by Charles. The obverse has a bust of the king of most exquisite workmanship, and round the edge of the coin, in place of DECVS., etc., was this simple petition in two lines:—

"THOMAS. SIMON. most humbly prays your MAJESTY to compare this, his tral piece, with "the Dutch, and, if more truly drawn, and "embossed, more gracefully ordered, and more "accurately engraven, to relieve him." At Trattle's sale, in 1832, a very fine specimen sold for £225.

JAMES II.

1685—1689.

The fourpence, threepence, twopence, and penny, have the value III. III. II. I., crowned.

Legend. MAG. BR. FRA. ET. HIB. REX. and date.

Silver being scarce in this reign, an issue of base money was resorted to, some of which, being struck from the old cannon melted down, is called gun money. The crown, which is scarce, has the king in armour, laureated, on horseback, with a drawn sword, a long sash flying behind; reverse, four shields in cross, with the crown in the centre; the half-crowns, shillings, and sixpences, have two sceptres in saltière, behind a crown, between I. R.; above the crown are numerals for value, and beneath, the month in which it was struck.
Gold. The five-pound piece is rare, the others common.

Copper. Halfpence and farthings. Obverse, bust profile, as before. Reverse, English, figure of Britannia, BRITANNIA; Irish, figure of Hibernia with the harp, HIBERNIA, or Irish harp crowned. Half-farthings. Obverse, sceptres in saltière, and crown. Reverse, harp or rose, crowned. There is also a kind called plug-money; this was struck owing to a scarcity of copper; it is a mixed metal, resembling tin, and in the middle is inserted a very small square plug of copper, to show that it is intended to pass for copper money.
WILLIAM III. & MARY II.

Legend. MAG. BRI. FR. ET. HIB. REG. and date.

Rarity. All common. The smaller denominations scarcer than the others.

Gold. Same Type. Reverse, sceptres between the shields.

Copper. As there is so much popular error concerning the farthings, it may be well to remark at length upon them, in order to clear away the absurd idea generally entertained, of there being only three in existence. Instead of this being the case, there are absolutely six distinct varieties. The first, which is the only one which was ever in general circulation, has, on the obverse, sinister bust, profile, of queen, draped, hair thrown back, encircled with a string of pearls, ANNA. DEI. GRATIA. ; reverse, figure of Britannia, olive branch in her right, and spear in her left hand, BRITANNIA, date, 1714, in exergue: this, although scarce, is by far the commonest of the whole: there is one with the same type, but broad rim, which is rare. Second, bust as before, ANNA. REGINA. ; reverse, as last. Third, same bust, ANNA. DEI. GRATIA. ; reverse, figure of Britannia, right leg bare; BRITANNIA, 1713, round. Fourth, obverse as before; reverse, Britannia, as last. under an arch; BRITANNIA, 1713, in exergue. Five, bust as before, with band instead of pearls, within an inner circle (the busts on the others are on the field); reverse, figure of Britannia standing, helmeted, in the right hand the olive branch, and in her left the spear, within inner circle; BELLO. ET. PACE.; date, 1715, in exergue. Sixth, bust as one, ANNA. AVGVSTA; reverse, same figure as last, standing in a car, drawn by two horses; in her right hand she holds the olive branch, in her left the reins and a spear; PAX. MISSA. PER. ORBEM. 1713, in exergue. The prices depend upon the state of preservation of the coins, but, for fine ones, the following are about the values: 1, from six shillings to fourteen shillings; 2 and 3, from fifteen shillings to thirty shillings.
and 6, from two to three pounds; 5, the rarest, from five to ten, or twelve pounds. There is a small medal, or counter, which is very frequently mistaken by the generality of persons for one of her farthings, it has on the obverse the bust, with ANNA. DEI. GRATIA; reverse, the four shields in cross, sometimes plain, and sometimes with roses between the shields, MAG. BR. FRA. ET. HIB. REG. 1711; frequently RIG. instead of REG. Some of these are of beautiful workmanship, and others very rude: they are far from being scarce; they were not struck as current coins. Halspenny, bust, ANNA. D. G. MAG. BR. FR. ET. HIB. REG.; reverse, sitting figure of Britannia, leaning on a shield, in her left hand a spear, in her right a rose and thistle emanating from the same branch; the whole beneath a crown.
